A claim which has been before the Treasury and the War Departments for the last thirty years has been settled by sage of an act of Congress in 1870 which | reasons, recognized as a part of the military force of the United States Capt, David Beatty's company of independent scouts.

This company was organized in Tenne see, and served throughout the war on the Union side, but it was at no time regularly mustered into the service of the United States, Neither officers nor privates received any compensation from the Government, and the act of 1870 was for the purpose of deciaring the company entitled to the same pay and provisions as if it had been mustered in. Roberts, who was a member of the company, applied for his pay in 1871. He received a check for $1,064.22, this being pay for service, for herse, and for clothing

Roberts said this was more than his period of service entitled him to and sent the check back, asking for what was really due and no more. The War Department looked up his record and decided that he was entitled to only $210.45.

Roberts claimed that the amount should be $551.20, but the decision, confirmed a few days ago, confirms the former decision that $210.45 only should be allowed and a check for that amount has been sent

Both men were in splendid form and only seven hits were made off each. Cuppy seemed to let up in the middle of the game, but phenomenal work by Olins spoiled three stinging drives that apparently were hits, and Washington lost two excellent chances to tie the score.

Boston, on the other hand, was equally unable to drive in runs off Carrick, and both men who crossed the plate in the fourth did so with the help of a bad defection on the country brought Patsy in, Jerry being declared out at the plate on the belayed throw in. It was a close decision, but the fans thought him safe and invaded the diamond, assaulting O Day, who was only saved from fearful punishment by Donovan and the police. As it was, he received several stiff blows from several of the angry mob. It required half a dozen policemen and the entire team of the Cardinals to get him safely away from the crowd. It was a disgraceful exhibition on the part of the fans. The score: Lining the sphere out with telling effect. In this inning when all three of the corners were occupied one hefty Guardsman sauntered up to the home plate and laid his weight against a walst-high ball with sufficient strength to send it out of reach long enough for the three occupants of the bases to romp home with the winning runs while he waddled to the second bag. Rainey, who did the laborious box work for the victors, had all that was needed in the shape of speed and twisters, and only four scratch bingles were secured off his cannon-ball delivery. The team gave his cannon-ball delivery. The team gave him good support and hung onto any-thing that could be handled in the shape of hot liners, sky scrapers or grass cut-ters. Brian, who covered second base for the winning side, made several difficult catches, which probably saved the day for his team. The score:

Albert Champion is one of France's latest contributions to the racing world and is undoubtedly a good man in the business. He is considered a good follower of motor pace and in his battle against Linton Friday night will put up a fine exhibition and fast time is expected. He will be accompanied by a crew of French riders to pace him, and this will be of great advantage to the Frenchman. The amateur events will be run off as preliminaries to the big race and will begin at 8 o'clock. All of the best riders of this city will contest.
